TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN

This is to certify that Ms. Afroja Khatun, a student of IILM University, Greater Noida, successfully completed a one-month internship with SANLAAP from 1st June to 30th June 2026.

SANLAAP is a non-governmental development organization committed to combating the trafficking of women and children and preventing second-generation prostitution. Established in 1987 and registered under the Societies Registration Act in 1939, SANLAAP works across the continuum of Rescue, Recovery, Restoration, Rehabilitation, and Reintegration/Repatriation of survivors of trafficking, commercial sexual exploitation, forced labour, child marriage, and other forms of violence and abuse. The organization strives to uphold the rights of women and children and envisions a society in which they can live free from violence, discrimination, and exploitation while enjoying their full human and constitutional rights.

During her internship, Ms. Khatun was placed under the Sealdah Railway Project. She demonstrated sincerity, dedication, and a strong willingness to learn. She actively participated in outreach and awareness activities and gained practical exposure to child protection and community-based interventions. Under the supervision of the project team, she observed and assisted in the process of identifying and apprehending children arriving at Sealdah Railway Station from different districts and states who were found to be vulnerable or at risk, and learned about the procedures involved in their protection, rehabilitation, and restoration. She also participated in program activities, case discussions, documentation, and psychosocial support initiatives, which helped her develop an understanding of the social and psychological challenges faced by vulnerable children and women. She maintained professionalism, adhered to organizational policies on confidentiality and safeguarding, and carried out her responsibilities with commitment and enthusiasm. Her positive attitude, communication skills, and ability to work effectively with the team contributed meaningfully to the project.

She was then placed at the Head Office, where she actively contributed to the development of an informational leaflet designed for adolescent girls. The leaflet focused on raising awareness about key social issues and interventions, including the prevention of child marriage, the importance of health and hygiene, promoting girls' education, and encouraging girls to speak up against violence and discrimination. Through this assignment, she gained a deeper understanding of the challenges faced by vulnerable girls and the role of awareness-building in empowering them to make informed decisions.

In addition to her work at the Head Office, she also undertook a brief visit to the shelter home to gain practical exposure to the organization's direct care and support services. During her visit, she familiarized herself with the day-to-day functioning of the shelter, observed various procedures and processes, and developed an understanding of the systems in place to ensure the safety, well-being, and holistic development of the girls residing there.

Throughout the internship period, Ms. Khatun demonstrated sincerity, dedication, professionalism, and a keen interest in learning. She carried out her assigned responsibilities diligently and contributed positively to the organization's activities. Her conduct, commitment, and willingness to engage with both administrative and field-based aspects of social work were highly appreciated.

We commend her commitment to social justice and child protection and wish her every success in her future academic and professional endeavours.
